

Why does your business need emergency planning and training to remain compliant?

Duty to prepare an emergency plan and provision of training

Persons conducting a business or undertaking must ensure that an emergency plan or procedure is prepared for the workplace, including for workers who may work at multiple workplaces (OHS Act and Regulations WA).

Very Important Ref Regulations Part 3-10: (d) where practicable, the evacuation procedure is practiced at the workplace at reasonable intervals; and (e) persons at the workplace who would be required to help control or extinguish a fire at the workplace are appropriately trained and provided with appropriate protective clothing and equipment. Penalties apply!

What is an emergency plan?

An emergency plan is a written set of instructions that outlines what workers and others at the workplace should do in an emergency. An emergency plan must provide for the following:

- Emergency procedures, including: an effective response to an emergency (Fire & Warden training)
- Evacuation procedures (To Australian Standards 3745-2010)
- Medical treatment and assistance (First Aiders)
- Testing of the emergency procedures—including the frequency of exercises

What training does your emergency control team require?

Skills Force Australia as an RTO (52354) recommends high quality nationally accredited training however we also offer low cost non-accredited training. Our training includes nationally accredited:

- Fire equipment CPPFES2005A (Also required for Mining sites & Construction)
- Fire Warden and Chief Warden PUAWER005B & PUAWER006B
- Combined Provide First aid with CPR HLTAID001 & HLTAID003 lower rate than St John's
- We also provide emergency evacuation procedures and exercises
- Save through group bookings

Skills Force Australia located in Baretta Road Wangara can assist your organisation to become and remain compliant with OH&S legislation. Don't wait book a group today!

Skills Force Australia Unit 3, 12-14 Baretta Road, Wangara, www.skillsforce.com.au,

Bookings- admin@skillsforce.com.au, (08) 93094722. Easy free parking